

Lost Islands and Hidden Landscapes

Recent archaeology from the Somerset Levels and Moors
Strode Theatre, Strode College, Street
Saturday 14th January 2012
9.00-17.00

Only £10 including buffet lunch, teas and coffee!

Payment by card or cheque entails a £1 transaction charge. Only those booking in advance will receive lunch and tea/coffee

The Somerset Levels and Moors has some of the most exciting archaeology in the country. This one day conference celebrates the recent archaeological discoveries from the area. A wide range of speakers will present the results of investigations on the wetland landscape and on the 'islands' of hard geology in the floodplain. The changing coast, 'disappeared' rivers, mesolithic burials, Saxon forts and medieval Abbeys and much more will feature.

Booking from Strode box office on 01458 442846 Mon-Sat 10am-2pm or book online at [www.strode theatre.co.uk](http://www.strode theatre.co.uk) .

Speakers include;

Prof Mick Aston: Early medieval Muchelney

Prof Tony Brown (Southampton University): Investigating the River Siger

Dr Keith Wilkinson (Winchester University): The Parrett valley in prehistory

Andy Crockett (Wessex Archaeology): Stear peninsula- the evolution of the landscape

Toby Catchpole (Gloucs. CC): The archaeology of the Somerset coast

Charlie Hollinrake (C+N Hollinrake): Prehistoric landscape and activity at Walpole

Dr Richard Brunning (SCC): Somerset changing coastline and Investigating the Lost Islands

Steve Membery (SCC): Development led excavations

Bob Croft (SCC): The island of the Princes, Iron Age to Medieval Athelney

The conference is sponsored by Somerset Archaeology and Natural History Society, Somerset County Council and the Somerset Levels and Moors Local Action Group

